WITH STYLE, CULTURE AND WINE

Portugal has 7 regions, which means that it has a lot to visit and discover, but there are more reasons to make it a good choice and to be on the list of trips to do in life.

✓ ITS CAPITAL, LISBON

A very attractive city. Lisbon is a hospitable place with its historic neighbourhoods and streets with tiled façades, to get to know by day or enjoy on a night out, along with examples of modern architecture and urban art. Lisbon is a city with a special radiance, which comes from the Tagus river and the proximity of the sea.

✓ SUN, BEACH AND SEA

The presence of the Atlantic Ocean and the climate, with very sunny summers and mild winters make Portugal a holiday destination renowned for sun and sea and walks on the beach throughout the year.

✓ WALKING AND CYCLING TRIPS

The Natural Parks and Reserves, Geoparks and Biosphere Reserves recognised by UNESCO have ensured that Portugal is also a destination very appreciated for enjoying outdoor activities.

✓ PATHS OF FAITH

The paths that are followed are also an encounter with spirituality. The Portuguese Road to Santiago and the Paths of Fátima are increasingly sought out by those who like walking a purpose, focusing on knowledge, nature and culture. Portugal is also seen as an important centre of Marian devotion. The Shrine of Fátima.

✓ GASTRONOMY AND WINE

Portuguese gastronomy is greatly appreciated and usually leaves good memories. The country's location and the proximity of the Atlantic explain the prominence which is given to fish and seafood. These taste even better when enjoyed on the seafront in the pleasant Portuguese sun, with the addition of a huge variety of top quality table wines.

The hospitality and friendliness of the Portuguese, who are always ready to help the tourist.

CONFERENCE VENUE

A National Monument along the bank of the Douro River

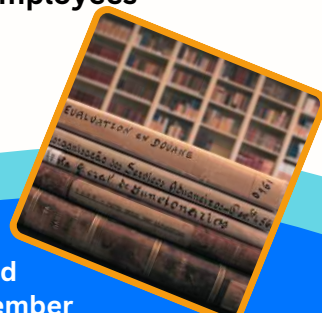

- ✓ The Porto Customshouse Congress Centre (Centro de Congressos da Alfândega) is a convention centre and former customs, built during the 14th century, the only official building of the Portuguese royalty in the city at that time. It is also known as the Casa do Infante, as it was where Henry the Navigator, patron of the Portuguese discoveries, was born.
- ✓ The building was designed to be practical and modern in its days. It even has a railway line that connected it to the railway station of Campanhã in Porto. The side facing the river, which can be well appreciated in Vila Nova de Gaia, was prepared to receive all the merchants that arrived by ship.
- ✓ After the opening of Leixões port, further north of Porto, the merchant ships no longer need to sail up the Douro, so the customs closed its doors and moved to Leixões.
- ✓ The museum and library is located inside the Porto Customshouse Congress Centre. The Customs Museum exhibits diverse documentation, equipment and instruments used in the Customs House Treasuries, Warehouses, Dispatches, Laboratories, as well as objects related to and used by the Customs employees
